Improve your life
with new communication experiences!

www.aal-alice.eu

Contact with family, neighbours and friends is very important. In order to feel safe and secure in the environment of your own house it is essential to have good contacts.

Examples are a chat with the neighbours, a phone call to your children or even emailing and chatting with your grandchildren.

New Communication Experiences become more and more accepted. However, communicating through the computer or even the television is not yet generally accepted, especially not for elderly people.

ALICE is a project which aims to develop new communication experiences in cooperation with the target audience (we mean you!).

- Video calling with family and friends
- Sharing photos and videos through the television
- An agenda with activities in the neighborhood
- Messages from your pharmacist
- Playing games with friends
- And much more...

ALICE offers you the opportunity to communicate through your television with others. It also has the possibility of leaving messages at other people's houses if you are unable to reach them directly. The core of ALICE is that it is easy to operate and help you satisfy your needs regarding contact with your environment.

If you choose to cooperate:

- You will have a person to contact directly for questions or problems
- We make sure everything functions perfectly
- Together we will evaluate your experiences with ALICE

Participation in the ALICE project is always completely free of charge.
